An interesting Lawsuit.

Pritssurso, June 2.—A dispatch from Dubois, Pa., says that an interesting lawsuit is to come up there this week. Last week, while the forest fires were raging in that vicinity, Sheriff McClosky sold some lumber in the eastern part of the county at sheriff's sale. It was bought by Mr. Marsh of Lock Haven for $10,000. Twelve hours later every foot of the lumber was destroyed by fire. The creditors for whom the sale was made are clamoring for their money, while Marsh clamoring for their money, while Marsh says no property was delivered to him.

The spire of St. Holen's church, in the Isle of Wight, which was built in the beginning of the last century and shortly afterward struck by lightning, had, as was supposed, the large bell of its chime cracked, as the tone was very much muffled. The other day a church warden happened to be in the beifry. and through curiosity examined the bell. He found that there was not a crack in it, but a piece of wood broken from the wheel was pressing against the edge and stopping the vibration. This being removed, the bell, after being muffled for ore hundred and seventy years, rang out merrily to the astemishment of the inhabitants of the WRANGLING IN THE SYNOD. The Reformed Presbyterian Ministers Create an Exciting Scene.

Perrsaulio, June 2 .- Contrary to expoctations the trial of the accused minis-ters was not commenced at this morning's session of the Reformed Presbyterian Synod. This fact, however, did not prevent the Synod once more en-gaging in a wrangle that, if possible, sur-passed in violence of language and ac-tions the wild scenes enacted during last week. The church was crowded to the

During the early hours of the session the seene was most exciting. The mere mention of the disturbance created by Dr. McAllister last week was again the cause of all the trouble.

Ministers noted for their dignity and spirits of Christianty went at each other in the most scathing language and were not a bit backward in characterizing each others as perverters of the truth. During the debate the vast audience was worked up to a state of highest exwis worked up to a state of inglest ex-citement. The moderator was powerless to control the warring clergymen; his appeals and commands went for naught. The trouble grew out of Dr. Meallis-ter's affort to revise the records in order that they might show the action taken by him in his effort to introduce extracts from a private letter. A motion to grant Dr. McAllister's request resulted in a split, and the matter was laid on the table. It was during the discussion of this motion that the wild seen enacted. Several times ministers and enacted. Several times ministers and audience joined in hearty applause, and at other times almost every person pres-ent would be in sympathetic tearfulness. The report of the committee on disci-pline was submitted and sustained the action of the Pittsburg Presbytery in having suspended the ministers at the recent trial. The committee recom-mended that the suspended ministers and those against whom Dr. McAllister had mended that the suspended ministers and those against whom Dr. McAllister had preferred charges should be granted a full and impartial hearing by the Synod. The report was received and laid on the table for the present.
